

The Cherry That Spoke

Once upon a time there was a little girl ^{With} ^{blonde hair} called Ali who felt incredibly hungry. So she went ^{outside} and picked a cherry. "Hands Off!" said the cherry. Ali looked at her brown and green eyed cat. "Did you say that?" said Ali.

"NO!"

"It was the cherry," said her ^{brown and} green eyed cat. "Aaaaargh!" screamed Ali.

So she ran and she ran and she ran until she came to a cafe where she met a waitress holding a cup.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shining so bright?" said the waitress.

"First a cherry spoke to me and next my cat," panted Ali.

"That's impossible!" said the waitress.

"Oh no it isn't," said the cup.

"Aaaaargh!" screamed Ali.

So she ran and she ran and she ran until she came to a deep, dark, ^{haunted} wood where she met a woodcutter with curly hair.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shining so bright?" asked the woodcutter.

"First a cherry spoke to me and next my cat and after that a cup," panted Ali.

"That's impossible!" laughed the woodcutter with curly hair.

"Oh no it isn't!" yelled the trees.
"Aaarrrgh!" screamed Ali.

So Ali ran and she ran, until ^{she} came to the ^{emperor's} emperor's shinning, beautiful palace.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shinning so bright?" asked the emperor.

First a cherry spoke to me, next my cat, and after that a cup and finally a tree talked.

Ali:
"That's impossible! Get out of here you foolish girl!" yelled the emperor.

Sadly Ali walked home with her head hung down.

"How silly of her to imagine that things can speak!" the emperor said to him self.

There was a long silents
silence.

"Quite so, whoever heard a talking cherry?"
asked the chair.
