

The Grape fruit That spoke

Once upon a time there was a skate boarder who felt so hungry so he went outside and picked a huge Grape fruit. "HANDS OFF!" said the huge Grape fruit. The skate boarder looked at his chicken. "Did you say that?" asked the skate boarder. "No, it was the Grape fruit," said the chicken. "Aaarrgh!" screamed the skate boarder.

So he skate boarded and he skate boarded and he skate boarded, until he came to a circus where he met lion-tamer with his lion.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shining so bright?" said the lion-tamer.

"First a Grape fruit spoke to me, and next my chicken," panted the skate boarder.

"That impossible!" said the lion-tamer.

"Oh no, it isn't," said the lion.

"Aaarrgh!!!" screamed the skate boarder.

So he skate boarded and he skate boarded and he skate boarded until he came to a dark creepy woods where he met wood chopper with his axe.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shining so bright?" asked the wood chopper.

"First a Grape fruit spoke to me, next my chicken and after that a lion," panted the skate boarder.

"That's impossible!" shouted wood chopper.

"Oh no it isn't," said the wood chopper's axe.

"Aaargh!!" screamed the skate boarder.

So he skate boarded and he skate boarded and he skate boarded until he came to a ^{corner} place where he met the ^{skinny} Lord with his ^{blue} tie.

"Why are you running so fast when the sun is shining so bright?" asked the Lord.

"First a Grape fruit spoke to me, next my chicken, after that a lion and finally a axe," replied the skate boarder.

"That's impossible! Get out of here you foolish man!" shouted the Lord. Sadly, the poor skate boarder skate boarded home with his head hung down.

"How silly of him to imagine things can speak," ^{said the Lord} there was a long silence.

"Quite so! Whoever heard of a talking Grape fruit," said the tie.

④
Where is
"?"

(I) Fantastic story. You included speech marks, correct punctuation and interesting characters.

Add detail

Remember to [^]put who spoke.